TAYLOR & JA'VAIL: A LOVE THAT
CROSSED BORDERS TO PARADISE.

BRIDE & GROOM

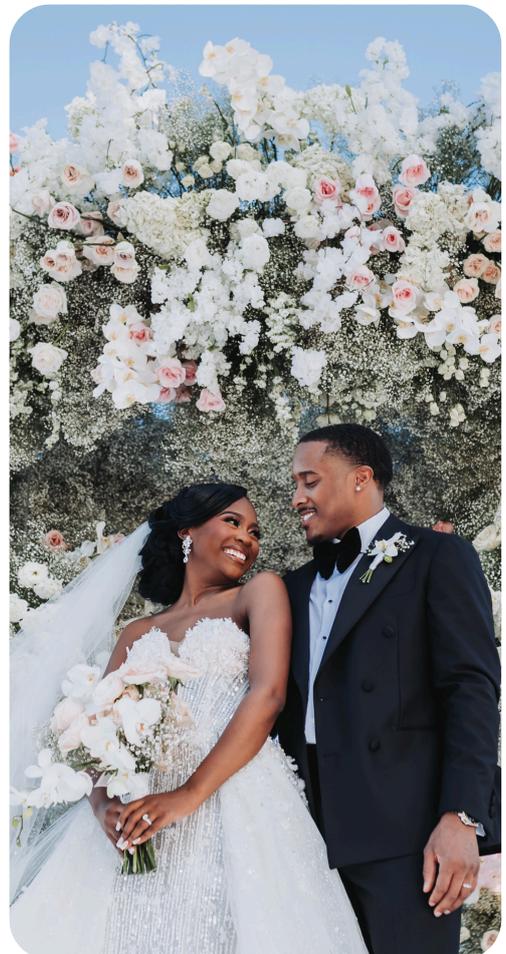

From vibrant New York City, Taylor & Ja'Vail decided that their love story deserved a setting as magical as their feelings: the breathtaking beaches of the Mexican Caribbean.

With their hearts full of illusion and their eyes set on the horizon, they chose to say "I do" in front of the turquoise sea, with the breeze caressing their promises and the sun illuminating the beginning of a new stage together.

Surrounded by 150 loved ones, among friends and family who traveled from different corners to accompany them, they lived a unique celebration, emotional and full of love. Every laugh, every tear, every shared embrace was a witness of a love that transcends distances and that found in the white sand the perfect place to bloom.

It was much more than a wedding. It was a dream come true, an indelible chapter in their history, and the beginning of a forever as beautiful as the sea that saw them unite.

Taylor & Ja'Vail: a love that traveled to paradise to be eternal.

FLORIST & DECOR

Editorial style wedding photography is an increasingly popular trend among couples looking for a more polished, artistic and timeless aesthetic. Unlike the traditional or purely documentary approach, the editorial style is inspired by fashion magazines such as Vogue or Harper's Bazaar, and focuses on creating images that look like something out of a luxury publication.

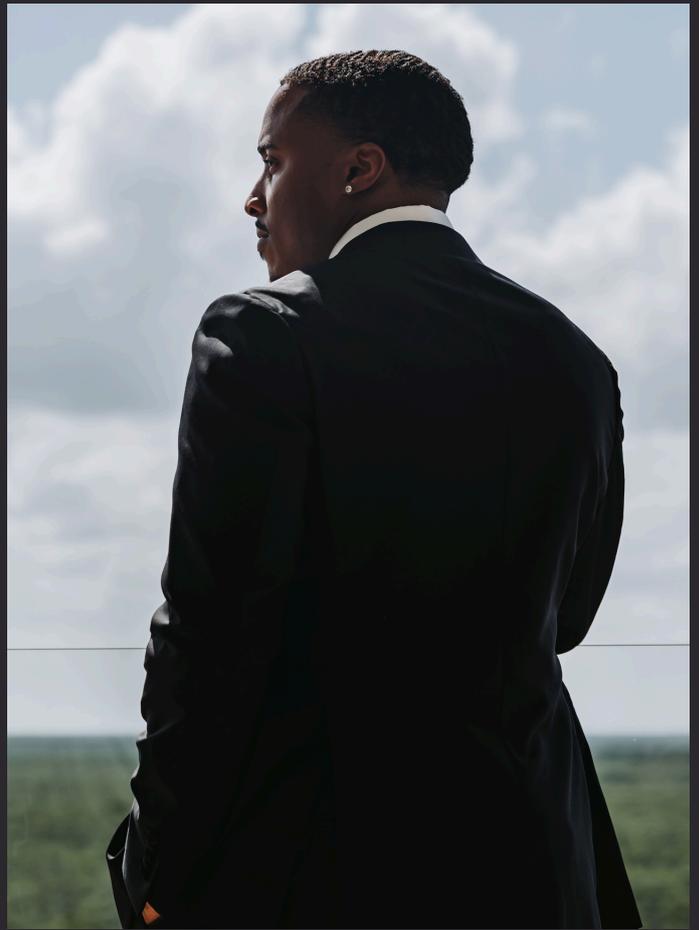

The photographic style of this wedding combined editorial aesthetics with natural romantic touches.

Soft lighting, cinematic framing and moving details created an inspiring visual narrative.

The photographer used tightly controlled artificial lighting (such as studio flashes or continuous light) to achieve interesting shadows and drama as well as 85mm lenses to capture the emotion without interruption.

Visual mood:

- Warm tones (creams, golds, blush).
- Spontaneous portraits.
- Soft focus and depth of field.

What is "Getting Ready" at a wedding?

The Getting Ready is one of the most intimate and special moments of the wedding day. It refers to the hours before the ceremony, when the bride and groom get ready: makeup, hairstyle, putting on the dress or suit, sharing laughter (and sometimes tears) with their closest loved ones. From a wedding photographer's perspective, this instant has a unique value, as it allows you to capture real emotions, carefully chosen details, and the energy leading up to one of the most important days of your life.

Tips for brides - from the eye of a wedding photographer

1. Have all the important details on hand.

Gather rings, invitations, perfume, shoes, jewelry and any other significant items. This allows us to capture them creatively before the action begins.

2. Keep the place tidy

Avoid having suitcases, water bottles, bags or unused clothes in sight. A clean environment allows the focus to be on you and your emotions.

3. Enjoy every second, without thinking about the camera

Some of the best photos are born from unposed moments. Relax, laugh with your team, look in the mirror and live your day. We'll take care of the rest.

What is a Wedding Content Creator and why should you hire one?

A wedding content creator is a professional who captures the most spontaneous and authentic moments of your wedding day in real time, using mainly cell phones and formats ideal for social networks such as Reels, TikToks and stories. Unlike the traditional photographer, their approach is immediate and dynamic, delivering content ready to share, even the same day or the next.

Why hire a content creator?

1. Content ready to share

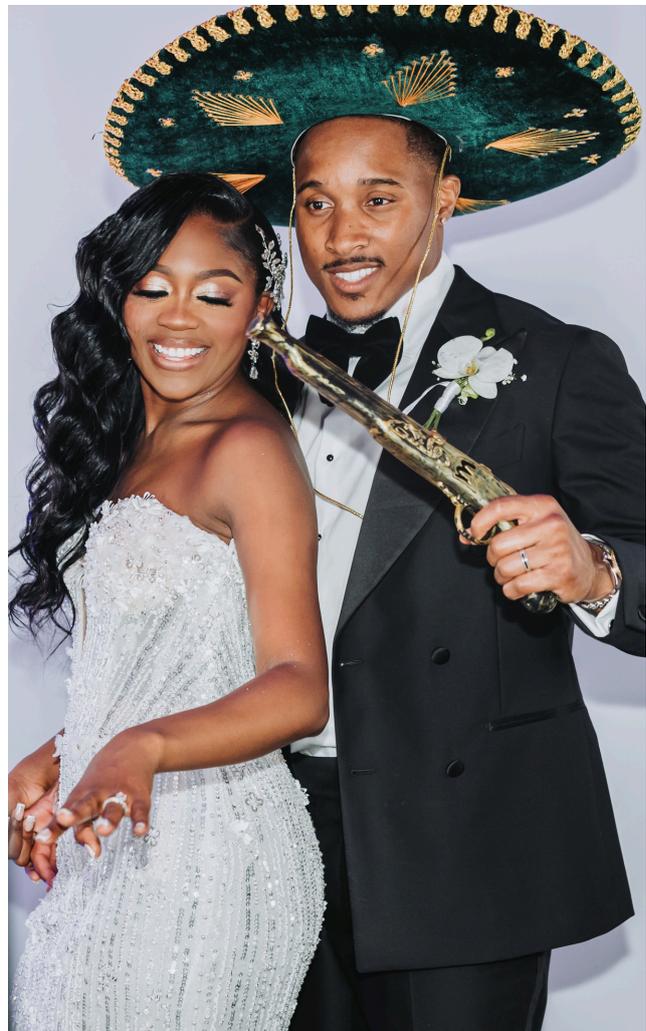

While you wait for your professional photos and videos, you will have fresh material to upload to networks and relive the excitement from the first day.

2. Capture the spontaneous moments

Laughter among friends, dances, bloopers and those seconds that are not planned, but make your wedding unique.

3. Complements the photographer/videographer, not replaces

They work together, not compete. While one looks for artistic captures, the other gives you fresh and emotional content for your day-to-day.
